Quick Facts

60% of consumers prefer to patronize restaurants that recycle, 51% saying they would be willing to pay a premium at restaurants that recycle.

Over 50% of foodservice operators believe that they will need a socially responsible strategy to remain competitive in the next two years.

In 2012, the U.S. recycled and composted 87 million tons of waste which is equivalent to removing the CO₂ emissions of over 33 million vehicles.

85% of consumers would be willing to sort their trash in the proper bins provided by a restaurant. Two-thirds recycle waste at home after finishing their take-out or delivery meals.
